PRAISES WORTH OF BLOODHOUNDS

Member of Black Watch Says They Do Good Work in War and for Police.

HELP KEEP DOWN CRIME

s the war and their police work is writby a member of the Black Watch of England to the Field. He says:

"I quite expected to see a more able citie than myself reply to Supt. Arundels remarks relative to the bloodhound. I am soins to defend the bloodhound. I so not know whether Supt. Arundel has seen any trained notice bloodhounds at york other than the hounds used by the West Riding Constabulary, or he might have based his remarks on their ability in a different way. Hoodhounds findoubtedly have a moral effect in keeping down crime. But they have a much better moral effect in reducing crime of certain classes which fill the calendar at jetty sessions, when once their reputa-tion as successful criminal trackers and their presence become known throughthe country where they are emefter having made their arrangements day. A criminal does not intend to lead to a clue. It would be all the better for both hounds and police if he did.

of deproducion the criminal's track will be crossed many times during his retreat. This I do not mind, provided I have satisfied myself that the hounds are on the right scent when they start off from the scene of the crime or theft. "I have tracked down all classes of criminals with bloodhounds, both by day and by night, and some of the best bound work has finished through various kinds of road and places heavily populated.

Supt. Arundel says a herd of pursurapit. Arunder says a nero of pursua-ing rows, an express thundering over a bridge, a man threatening with a stick will often be sufficient to turn the hound off the trail. There is certainly room for great improvement here. I deem it advisable where bloodhounds are re-quired to meet the emergency of the va-rious classes of crime they have to Iry rious classes of crime they have to try and solve, not to train them always over virgin soil but over all classes of ground stocked by cattle, sheep, deer and game. getting them acquainted with all and sundry which they are likely to meet and encounter during actual work. "Much, too, can be done for the banefit of the hounds during exercise in this direction. The police hounds under my charge will go boldly through any trafcharge will go boldly through any traffic, and will enter a train or rottor car in the same way. Much of this boldness depends on their handling and training. I exercise the hounds in company with my Airedale terriers and Labrador retrievers, which I have proved a splendid idea, for it institls into them much of the determination and bold ways of their companions.

year's scorebeard of achievement stands the record that the Miss Minneapolis, a twenty foot meter boat, known as a hydroplane, upon one of her speed trials, travelled at the phenomenal speed of 65.7 miles an hour. No vessel was ever driven through the water by a propeller at such a speed before. The Miss Minneapolis is haited as the fastest motor boat in the world.

These remarkable speeds were made ever the Put-In-Hay course in July. In September at Detroit the same boat in a series of three races won the Gold Chailenge Cup from its holder, the Miss Detroit, last year's winner. In the race for the speed championahips of America Miss Minneapolis won with an average of 61.033 statute miles an hour. Her record also includes the winning at St. Paul of the Webb trophy and the interliake Tachting Association prize at Put-In-Hay.

Other mater beats which have made.

Paul of the Webb trophy and the interlike Yachting Association prize at Putin-Bay.

Other meter boats which have made their mark for meed and consistency this year include W. H. Hand, Jr.'s Countess, an express cruiser, which, in winning the 160 mile Block Island race showed an average speed of 27½ miles an hour: A. L. Judson's Hawkeve, winner of the Thousand Islands Cup, with a speed of 40.5 miles an hour, and Bernard Zahn's Caddy II., winner of the Stratford Shoal race of sixty-one miles, averaging 29.54 miles an hour for the distance.

Angle Title Changes Hands.

Alfredo de Oro held the three cushion championship when 1816 began, He defended it against Lloyd Jevne, at Boston, January 12, 13 and 14, the acores being 150 and 123. At Philadelphia, Fabruary 23, 24 and 25, he lost it to Charles Ellis, then of Pittsburg. Ellis retained it from Pierre Maupome, representing St. Louis, at Pittsburg, April 3, 4 and 5. On May 14, 15 and 16, at Pittsburg, Charles C. McCourt, also of Pittsburg, won the trophy by the close secore of 150 to 149.

At Pittsburg, September 25, 26 and 27, Hugh Heal took the championship against 15.4 made by last year's boats.

This fact shows a marked increase in the efficiency of this year's engines.
